PRICE TWO CENTS

POLICEMEN ON TWO WEEKS' PROBATION

Board of Public Works Plainly Expresses Dissatisfaction With the Work of Department.

MILLS RECOMMENDS DISMISSAL

Marshal J. T. Abell, Who is Appointed by the Mayor, Is Not Included in The Order.

The police department was handled without gloves at the meeting of the board of public safety Friday night, and after considerable pointed discussion regarding the present condition of the city it was agreed to give the policemen one more chance to "make good" and all of them appointed by that board were placed upon a two weeks' probation. All of the police officers, except the chief, are subject to removal by the board of safety, while the chief is appointed by the mayor.

The members of the board were determined that the existing condition of the city must be improved and decided that more effective police protection must be given even if present officers must be removed. In discussing the question the members spoke freely and did not mince their words. Chairman Mills started the discussion and said that he wanted to see the conditions improved, and that unless he was given the cooperation of the other members of the board he would resign as chairman. He said that the conduct of the city depended upon the police and the mayor, and that he intended to do everything he could to have the appointments of the board the best possible.

Mr. Mills further stated that the members of the police force had been called before the board of safety several months ago, and at that time informed that they would not again be asked to appear to defend their action, but that if their services were not more effective they would be asked to resign. The chairman said that the last administration was regarded as a very open one, but that it was creditable compared to the present one, and he thought the time had come when something must be done. He said that the board of safety was held responsible for the actions of all the police officers except the chief, and he was in favor of selecting men who would do their duty. His speech was followed by a motion demanding the night men file their resignations at once, but the motion was lost for want of a second. Mr. Davison was also of the opinion that the policemen should perform their duties in a more effective manner, but moved that they be placed upon a two weeks' probation. This motion was carried followed by a suggestion by Sherman Day that during those two weeks the officers make good, and show what they can do.

During the discussion the acts of depredations which occurred on New Year's eve were inquired into, and it was found that one of the night policemen had been ordered to watch house which was under quarantine, which left only two men on duty. While the chief is responsible for the actions of the other officers under his control, he is not required to be on duty during the night time except when called for specific purpose. The incident of the Bartholomew county official at the interurban station was also recalled, and Marshal Abell, who was present, was asked what he knew about it. It seems that on that memorable New Year's eve a deputy sheriff of Bartholomew county was in the city with a prisoner and that they became rather boisterous at the interurban station. The Seymour police were called, and when they arrived they found that the handcuffs had been taken from the prisoner's wrists and that he had them in his pocket. It is reported that something was said about arresting the deputy sheriff and his prisoner, whereupon the former pulled a revolver from his pocket. The Seymour officers were not be outdone and they also drew their weapons. No arrests were made, however, and later the deputy and his prisoner returned to Columbus.

Inquiry was also made regarding several other acts which have been reported during the past few days. The majority of the members of the board were of the opinion that politics should not be considered in the appointment of policemen and an effort should be made to secure men who would endeavor to perform their duty.

DIED.

BELL.—Mrs. Emma Hustedt Bell died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hustedt, on east Second street about 11:30 o'clock this morning. The deceased was born in this city at the present home of her parents, August 1, 1878, making her age, thirty-two years, six months and six days. She is survived by her parents, two sisters, Miss Minnie Hustedt, and Mrs. George Bender, three brothers, Harmon, Will and Charles, and a large number of other relatives and friends. She was a member of the Rebekahs, Pythian Sisters and Order of Eastern Star. She was also a sincere member of the St. Paul church from which place the services will be conducted Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. H. R. Booch will officiate. Burial at Riverview cemetery.

JURY DISAGREED

Unable to Come to a Verdict in the Jackson Case.

The jury was unable to reach a verdict in the case of State of Indiana vs Matt Jackson which was tried in the city court Friday. The jurymen remained in their room until after seven o'clock, and it is said that six of them were in favor of acquittal and the same number in favor of conviction. The case went to the jury about four o'clock. The case may be tried again if the authorities deem advisable.

TWO EXCELLENT ADDRESSES GIVEN

J. A. Driscoll Spoke Upon "Things Worth While" and J. A. Linke Regarding "Community Interest."

MANY ATTEND THE INSTITUTE

Closing Meeting Will Be Held This Afternoon.—Premium List Will Be Announced.

Two excellent addresses were given at the meeting of the farmers' institute Friday evening, one by J. A. Driscoll, who chose for his subject, "Things Worth While," and another by Prof. J. A. Linke upon "Community Interest." Both addresses were heard with much interest by the large audience that crowded the Majestic theatre. Excellent music was given by the high school chorus, and many compliments were heard upon the duet by Miss Mabel Hodapp and Don A. Bollinger.

Close attention was given to the address by Mr. Driscoll who has a very pleasing manner upon the platform. He said that different people had various ideas regarding things which are worth while, and that almost everyone had a different end in view.

He continued: "There are two things upon which I am sure that we will all agree as being worth while, first the home that is conducive to health, happiness and comfort, second, an income that is sufficient to maintain such a home. It is perfectly right for us to make that income as large as we can, the larger it is the more comforts we can have. But the home and the income are not all the things worth while. —Besides the physical needs which the home and the income supply, there are certain mental and spiritual needs that are quite as necessary if we would enjoy life to the fullest extent.

The world today, is demanding men and women trained for special lines of work, a training that means years of hard work and preparation. Surely the farm is as great and broad a field for the exercise of intelligence and judgment as the railroad or the lawyer's office. The day has gone when any fool can farm. So if the boy likes to farm teach him all you know and furnish him every available means to learn more. If you can not give him a course in an agricultural school, do the next best thing, furnish him the best agricultural literature, and encourage him to read it."

He showed very clearly the necessity of good books and good literature that character might be molded in the correct channel. He emphasized the fact that the best results could be obtained from reading good books only by careful reading and study, and that very little was gained by hastily glancing through the pages.

His address was very instructive and was greatly appreciated by those present.

Prof. J. A. Linke also gave an excellent address. He pointed out how the life on the farm and in the city

SELECT STREETS FOR IMPROVEMENT

Ewing, Chestnut and Walnut streets Will Be Permanently Improved This Spring.

MATERIALS ARE CONSIDERED

No Definite Action Taken, But Crushed Rock Will Probably be Selected.

Three principal streets will be permanently improved this spring according to the action taken by the board of public works at their regular meeting Friday night. The matter has been under consideration for some time and while all of the details have not yet been completed, it was definitely decided to improve Ewing street from Second to the north corporation line, Chestnut from Third to the north corporation line and Walnut street from the south corporation line to seventh street.

The board has not determined upon the material to be used, but the improvement will probably be made with crushed stone. According to an estimate this will cost about one dollar per lineal foot, which cost is much less than for almost any other kind of material. Brick and asphalt were considered but the cost of these is very great to begin with, and the expense of maintenance of asphalt is considerable. Brick is regarded as the most durable, but on account of the noise is not desirable for the residential portions of the city. Gravel was also discussed, but the cost of this is about the same as the rock, and it is not as lasting.

The council intends to make permanent improvements upon the streets whenever an improvement is made, and an effort will be made to systematize the work so that in the course of several years the city will have the majority of its streets permanently improved.

If the improvements are made with the macadam, it is the intention to make the foundation of the street about six inches deep out of crushed limestone, and over the top place about three inches of finer rock. The bed of the street will be rolled until it is packed before the screenings are placed on the surface.

In order to build the street in the proper manner, it will be necessary to have the street rolled with a heavy steel roller, and the members of the board are contemplating the purchase of such a roller. It is said that it would cost about $3,000, but that it could be used upon all the streets and would belong to the city. If a roller is rented it would cost $25 per day. If the streets are improved under a contract the successful contractor would be required to furnish his own roller.

The city engineer and city attorney were instructed to prepare an estimate of the total cost of such improvement and also the cost to each property owner. The streets will be graded to a level of the top of the curb with sufficient slope for drainage. The streets which have been selected for the improvement are all improved with the concrete gutter and curbing, and if the macadam air gravel is used it would not be necessary to remove these.

It is the intention of the board to make all the preliminary arrangements for the improvement so that the work can begin as soon as the weather will permit. Final arrangements will not be made until the legislature passes upon a proposed law requiring the property owners to pay for the intersections. Under the present law the city pays for the intersections and for the alleys. It is said that the proposed law will be taken up by the legislature at once.

PUBLIC INSTALLATION
Of the New Officers of Elsworth Post Last Night.

A public installation of the recently elected officers of Elsworth Post, G. A. R. was held at the hall Friday night. Arrangements for installing the new officers of the W. R. C. had been made but owing to the necessary absence of the new president and the fact that several of the appointive officers had not been named, this part of the program was postponed.

There was a large attendance of members of the two orders and others for the exercises and the occasion was an enjoyable one. Post Commander W. G. Durham called the meeting to order after which the installing officer, Rev. F. M. Huckleberry was given charge and the ceremony of obliging the new officers was carried out. After the program there was a program of music and recitations including the singing of patriotic songs, recitations by Mrs. Gast and Miss Myrtle Anderson, solo by Helen Clark, accompanied by Mrs. Frank Voss and a duet by Mrs. T. R. Carter and Miss Anna Carter. Refreshments were served by a committee from the W. R. C. and the exercises closed with the singing of "God be With You Till We Meet Again." After the meeting, on the invitation of the manager of the Rustic, the members of the two orders attended the show.

ANNUAL REPORT
Of Fire Department Made to Board of Public Safety.

At the regular meeting of the board of Public Safety last night the following report was submitted by chief Walter S. Everhart.

To the Chairman and members of the Board of Public Safety:

Gentlemen: There were four fires in December with a loss of $142.

The total number of fires in the year of 1910 was thirty-one, with a total loss of $5,933.30.

Pay of Volunteer Firemen in 1910	$ 97 50

Horse Shoeing	35 65
Horse Feed	214 69
Incidental Expense	754 16

Total $1102 00

Respectfully Submitted,

W. S. EVERHART, Chief.

The question of increasing the salaries of the members of the fire department was discussed, but the members of the board of safety were of the opinion that no change could be made as the salaries had been set for a period of four years. Chief Walter S. Everhart presented several letters from the fire chiefs of surrounding cities stating the salaries paid, and several of them were somewhat higher than those paid the members of the local department.

21 GOVERNMENT LIQUOR LICENSES

Have Been Issued to Seymour Dealers During Last Seven Months.

"SOFT" DRINKS ARE POPULAR

Rather a Remarkable Record for a City of This Size in "Dry" Territory.

Seymour is in territory that was voted "dry" under the local option law more than eighteen months ago and the last saloon closed its doors more than a year ago. For several months there was no place in Seymour where intoxicating liquors were sold openly.

Last spring the "soft" drink idea obtained a foothold here and since that time the internal revenue office at Indianapolis has issued twenty-one government licenses to retail liquor dealers in the city of Seymour. This government liquor license does not confer any privilege to the holder of such a license to sell liquor in "dry" territory. It merely protects him from prosecution under the United States laws in case he should be found selling liquor. And under a liquor law, passed by the Indiana legislature the possession of such a government license in "dry" territory may be taken as prima facie evidence that the holder is violating the state liquor laws. These licenses must be displayed conspicuously in the places of business and any officer who wished to enforce the law could readily see that such licensees had been issued.

It is worthy of note also that the mayor of this city ordered all "soft" drink establishments to close on election day. If only "soft" drinks are sold, the average citizen fails to see the necessity for such an order from the mayor.

The average citizen also fails to see why twenty-one dealers in seven months would pay the government license fee of twenty-five dollars each if they were not selling liquor, and if they did not feel the need of protection from the United States revenue officers, and at the same time feel reasonably sure that they would not be prosecuted by local officers under the state laws.

The following is the list of government liquor licenses issued to Seymour dealers since last June:

BARNEYS ARE AN ISSUE

ECCENTRIC WASHINGTON FAMILY ATTRACTS ATTENTION.

Members of This Remarkable Family Have for Years Kept the Capital in a State of Constant Expectancy.

An undraped statue on the lawn brought the Barney family, of Washington, into international notoriety in a day. Yet for years the members of this remarkable household have kept the national capital in a state of constant expectancy. They are more than a family, these Barneys; they are an issue.

Now there be these three: Laura, Natalia and Mrs. Barney, but the greatest of these is Mrs. Barney.

For talent, eccentricity, genius, oddity, idealism of the loftiest, practicalness of the shrewdest, deep sympathy with human kind in all its phases, especially in its suffering, and yet absolute, cold-blooded indifference to what this same human kind may have to say or think of her and her doings, charity that welcomes the humblest, and yet haughty aloofness that holds off the proudest at arms' length—for all this and these, there is none in the whole country to compare with Mrs. Albert Clifford Barney, artist, author, musician, religious enthusiast, sculptor, poetess, architect, playwright, actress, dancer, business woman and philanthropist. No wonder a woman as versatile as that is talked about.

Mrs. Barney is a native of Cincinnati. Her father was the founder and wealthy owner of the famous Pike's Theater. Although a belle in the leading society coterie of her youthful days, she nevertheless found time to write and stage, for charity's sake, many a well-written play. She was author, stage manager and actress in these early excursions of her genius, and her father, discerning her talent, sent her abroad to cultivate it.

On her return to America, she married Mr. Barney, a wealthy financier of Ohio, and when he died several years ago their combined fortunes amounted to about $10,000,000, the half of which came to her, while the balance went to her two daughters, Laura and Natalia, in their own right.

About ten years ago the family removed their residence to Washington. Mr. Barney's death occurred a few years after. Mrs. Barney, who with her daughters, had even then become a prominent member of society as well as a leader in artistic and charitable circles, then went abroad for several years, roaming hither and yon over the countries of the globe, now studying in Paris or Italy, now exploring unknown Asia.

It was on this extended visit, and while the Barneys were in Asia, that they became acquainted with the cult of Bahai. Miss Laura Barney, especially, became an enthusiastic devotee of which later.

On the return Mrs. Barney, ripened into knowledge and indifference to the world's opinion, addressed herself to many things that at once brought her into the spotlight of notoriety. The Bahai religion, or cult rather, which languished in America with but a few half-hearted members, was, through her efforts and by her enthusiasm and purse, rapidly brought to a healthful growth. As the real founder of the sect in America, she and her daughter Laura have always been the acknowledged heads and leaders, especially in Washington.

Plunging at the same time into the work of practical charity, Mrs. Barney founded the Neighborhood House, an institution that has been productive of a world of good to the needy and unfortunate of Washington.

These multiple interests, however, as well as the conduct of her vast estate, were all subordinate to the building of the "Studio House," as she calls it, commenced about seven years ago. Through this she first became widely known as an eccentric. When abroad she had collected everything artistic and odd which met her eye until she had enough to stock a dozen curio shops.

Reversing the ordinary custom of building a house and then furnishing it in accordance with the general artistic tone and design, she reversed processes, bought her curios, bric-a-brac, and antiques from Dublin to Pekin, and then set about to build a house around them. The result was the "Studio House."

JUST TEN KINDS OF MONEY

Uncle Sam Officially Has This Number, but Not All of These Are Legal Tender.

There are just 10 kinds of money in circulation in the United States, that is officially. These are: Gold coins, standard silver dollars, subsidiary silver, gold certificates, silver certificates, treasury notes (1890), United States notes (greenbacks), national bank notes, nickel coins and bronze coins.

Some of the most imposing of this paper currency is not a legal tender at all, while as to the minor coins they are legal tender in such small amounts as to startle the average layman. It may be well to recall to this layman that the term "legal tender" owes its significance to the fact that in payment of debt or obligation of any kind it can be forced upon the creditor "in full of all demands." Looking upon this formidable classification of United States money as made by the treasury department, it becomes more formidable when it is considered from the highly technical point of view as a legal tender.

Gold certificates, silver certificates and national bank notes, of which such enormous numbers circulate everywhere, are not legal tender. If you have plenty of money, and if you have forced Jones to sue you in order to get judgment, Jones can turn down every one of these bills tendered in payment and force you to dig up something better.

Should Jones do such a thing, you might conceive the idea of fixing him by unloading a whole lot of silver coins upon him. But you want to know what you're doing there, too, for he'll take only $10 worth of halves, quarters and dimes, while as to nickels and copper cents, only 25 cents value is legal tender.

But as to the standard silver dollar, there's no limit upon your shoveling them out to Jones. This old "dollar of our dads" still is the real thing in all business transactions unless some clause in a contract has provided otherwise. Jones may refuse the silver certificate, but when you dig up the metal dollar, they go unquestioned at their face value. And 1,000 of them weigh 58.92 pounds.

HARD TO GET ARMY HORSES

Quartermasters Engaged in Purchase Report Scarcity in All Parts of the Country.

Quartermasters engaged in the purchase of horses for the United States army again report to the war department a scarcity in all parts of the country of horses suitable for the mounted service. This condition is believed to be the result of the discontinuance of the breeding of well-bred horses of the type required for military purposes. This important question was taken up some time ago by the war department and the department of agriculture, and what is now believed to be an excellent and feasible plan has been devised for the breeding of suitable horses. Officers of the army are confident that satisfactory results will be secured from it, and that in the course of a few years the scarcity of proper animals for the cavalry, artillery, etc., will have been met successfully. This is a subject which has occupied the attention of the ministries of war of France, England, Germany, Italy, Russia and Japan for some years past. Great Britain appears to be setting the pace for foreign nations in this important particular, for she has now in successful working order several excellent horse breeding establishments under competent military veterinarians.

ADOPT POST INTEREST PLAN

Will Be Payable Once a Year, Say Trustees Who Meet at the Capital.

At a meeting in Washington of the board of trustees of the postal savings system the plan for the computation of interest on deposits, which has been under consideration, was adopted. Under the interpretation of the act agreed on by the board interest on deposits will be payable only once a year. No interest on an original deposit will be payable until the first twelve months have elapsed. It was evidently the purpose of the act, it is thus construed, to encourage depositors to leave their money on deposit for a considerable period, thus inducing the saving habit.

In order to simplify the accounting in computing interest, the board adopted a resolution providing that interest shall be allowed only from the first day of the month following date of deposit. For the convenience of depositors there will be on each certificate of deposit an interest table that will show the amount of interest to which the holder is entitled at any given period.

She Won a Prize

"Haven't you ever lived in a flat?" asked the young woman suburbanite of her neighbor. "Well, all I've got to say is that you're luckier than most. We did—once."

"A flat's no place for us, of all people—seven kids in the family, and four of them boys that always were used to a house and didn't know how to close doors softly and not drop their boots when they go to bed and refrain from playing the piano at night after they ought to quit. But we did live in a flat for a while, in the suburbs, and just underneath us we had some other people that never ought to have lived in a flat, either."

"At least, the man oughtn't. His wife didn't mind a reasonable amount of racket, but when he was home, my goodness, you couldn't sneeze but he'd hear you and kick like a steer."

"One night we had a little party, we kids, and of course we were having fun. It wasn't late—only about quarter to ten—but he got the landlord and brought him up into our hall and stood him opposite our door, and told him just to listen. That's the kind of man our landlord was."

"The night we heard he was going to move we gave him a parting serenade with everything we could find that would make a noise, from the dishpan and potato-masher up to Rob's cornet."

"But I didn't start to tell you about that. What I was thinking of was how there never is any place to put things in a flat and the time that Anne and I went to the Thanksgiving party and Anne won a goose in a guessing contest."

"What? No, that was the worst of it—it wasn't a dead goose. It was a live one, with all its feathers on, and a voice! My goodness, that goose had a voice!"

"They made us take it along and we walked home with that idiotic thing in our arms. Every once in a while it would look up at Anne and squawk, and then we'd have to sit down on the curbstone and laugh for a few minutes before we could go on. You've no idea how loud it sounded in those empty streets. I know everybody in the place thought we were crazy."

"Well, anyhow, we got home with that goose. The minute we got inside the vestibule it had another squawking fit. Anne tried to smother it in her petticoat, but that only made it squawk worse."

"We set it down on the stairs and tried to pacify it. I remember that Anne said 'Poor kitty!' and 'Soh, boss!' and 'Hushaby, mother's lamb,' and I tried to sing it a lullaby, but I couldn't do anything but snort."

"Anne suggested that we tie it to the nervous man's door with a string and let it squawk—it would distract his attention from us, anyway. But I said that I meant to keep that goose now that we'd got it home. So we went upstairs and unlocked the door to our apartment."

"Then Anne told me to wait a minute. 'That thing will keep us all awake if we let it squawk all night,' she said. 'I've got an elastic band in my pocket book, and I'm going to muzzle it.'

"Pretty soon she found a strong, healthy, thick, elastic band, and though we nearly died doing it, we got it on that goose's spout. The beast insisted on turning its head to look at us all the time, too, and when we finally had it on the noise it made trying to squawk through the muzzle was worse than before, though, of course, it didn't have quite as much volume."

"Well, as I said, there isn't any place to put things in a flat. When we got to looking around for a place to put the goose we were stumped."

"I suppose geese ought to roost, oughtn't they? But there didn't seem to be anything like a roost in the flat except the mahogany hatrack, and mamma's very choice of that. I knew she wouldn't stand for any geese roosting there. So just as I was about to give up and put it under our bed Anne suggested that we keep it in the bathtub."

"I wish you could have seen that creature slithering around on the porcelain bottom of the bathtub trying to squawk through the elastic band and looking reproachfully at us. Honestly, it would have given a mourning angel the hiccoughs. Anne suggested turning on the water, but I said I wasn't going to make that poor goose exercise all night, so we left it dry and went to bed."

"Mother was the one who found it in the morning. She went to take her bath early, and when she met the goose face to face she let out a shriek that brought every soul in the flat out of bed with one jump."

"We rushed to the bathroom and found mother in her kimono and curl papers, sitting on the rug and having as nice a fit of hysterics as anybody ever saw."

"We didn't hear the last of our goose for weeks—long after it was croquettes."

"We moved at the end of the year. Mother said it was too trying to live where there wasn't any place to put things when you brought 'em home. Anne and I didn't blame her a bit."

ORIGIN OF OLD SAYINGS.

The Bridegroom. — In primitive times the newly wedded man had to wait upon his bride and the guests on his wedding day. He was their groom.

Sirloin of Beef.—King Charles I, being greatly pleased with a roast loin of beef set before him, declared it "good enough to be knighted." It has ever since been called Sir Loin.

A Spinster.—Women were prohibited from marrying in olden times until they had spun a full set of bed furnishings on a spinning-wheel; hence, till married, they were spinsters.

Cabal.—This word was coined in Charles II's reign and applied to his cabinet council. It was made out of the initials of their names, which were: Clifford, Arlington, Buckingham, Ashley, Lauderdale.

WATCHMAKERS BUY THE TIME

London Woman Follows Curious Occupation of Her Father—Time Is Money.

The curious occupation of a London woman, who, like her father before her, finds that time is money by selling Greenwich observatory time to watchmakers, is described by The Graphic:

Probably no hill in the world has had so strangely varied a history or played so important a part in the affairs of men as that at Greenwich. The granite line across the footpath on its summit is the meridian on which the longitude of every British map and chart is calculated. All England sets its time by the mean solar clock. There is a large galvanomagnetic clock fixed on the outside wall of the observatory and divided into 24 hours. There are still many who believe this clock is kept going by the sun. They do not know that the fixed stars are the real timekeepers from which Britons check their daily progress. To this galvanomagnetic clock in the wall comes every Monday a woman, who makes $2,500 a year out of the queerest occupation in England. She sells the time to London watchmakers. Her name is Miss Belleville, of Maidenhead. Eighty years ago the then astronomer royal suggested to her father that if he took the corrected time of a certified chronometer every week, he could, no doubt, find numerous clients. So he bought a watch, made for the Duke of Essex, and then worked up a business with it. When he died his widow sold the time till she reached the age of 81, and then she handed the business over to her daughter. When Miss Belleville visits Greenwich at the beginning of every week, her chronometer is corrected, and she is given an official certificate. From that her customers correct their watches and clocks.

Theory vs. Practice.

A certain Dr. C. — was once reading a very strenuous paper on total abstinence before a clerical club—so the story goes—when the entertainer went out to tell his wife how many she was to provide for at supper.

"What are they doing?" she asked, and was told the subject of the essay. "What shall I do?" she cried. "Here I have brandied peaches, and it is too late to change."

"Make no change," said her husband. "It will be all right."

The essayist had the post of honor at the right of the lady of the house, and she presented him with a dish of the peaches. After a while she said to him, "Dr. C. —, won't you allow me to give you some more of these peaches?"

"Thank you," he replied. "They are excellent."

JAPANESE SEEKING THE SOUTH POLE

NOT to be outdone by other nations, the Japanese have entered the race to the South Pole and believe they have as good a chance to reach that goal as the English and the Germans. Without attracting a great deal of attention in other lands, the Japanese organized a well equipped expedition which already is on its way to the Antarctic on board the ship Hokomaru, under the command of Lieutenant Shiras, an able and experienced naval officer.

NOW MAKING RADIUM

Sir William Ramsay Expects to Turn Out Gram Monthly

Factory Erected at Limehouse for Manufacture of Precious Mineral on Commercial Basis—Keep It in England.

London.—Radium is now being produced in appreciable quantities in the east end of London.

This announcement, which will arouse considerable interest in the scientific world, was made by Sir William Ramsay, who had the satisfaction of showing to a party at the radium factory established in Thomas street, Limehouse, by the St. Ives consolidated mines, a sample of the precious mineral which had been manufactured on the spot.

It will be remembered that it was on the recommendation of Sir William himself that the factory was built. He experimented with some high grade pitchblende concentrate obtained from the Trentham mine, and reported that he had "recovered from this ore a considerable portion of radium in an approximately fair state."

So the factory at Limehouse was erected for the manufacture of radium on a commercial basis, and no statement had been made as to the results of the enterprise until now. Up to the present 5,500 milligrams of 10 per cent. radium (or 550 milligrams of pure radium) have been produced.

Arthur Schiff, a director of the company, informed a reporter that they proposed to put this amount upon the market in the course of a day or two. He thought it would fetch anything from £10,000 to £20,000. "We shall try to keep it in this country," he added.

At present the radium is being stored in a specially constructed safe lined with lead and asbestos and remarkable precautions are taken to insure its safety.

The process which is being adopted at Limehouse is much more rapid than any in use on the continent. In describing this process Sir William Ramsay said that the pitchblende ore was delivered in a concentrated form. The uranium, and iron and uranium was dissolved, and the next stage was to precipitate the radium out of the clear liquid.

When precipitated the radium was converted into radium bromide. Then, by repeated crystallization this bromide was separated into various grades of commercial salability. The actual time occupied in getting the radium liquors was a week, said Sir William, and the crystallization which went on afterward took a couple of months. The latest continental process which he saw described last week occupied a year.

As illustrating the certainty of the process in use at Limehouse, he mentioned that of 530 grams produced only one milligram would be left over in the liquid. Up to now just over half a gram had been extracted at Limehouse, but the process is now going on continuously and the works are laid out to produce one gram a month. So far only five or six grams are known to have been produced in the whole world.

"It has been supposed," said Sir William, "that Austrian pitchblende is particularly rich in radium, but it is no richer than any other. Moreover, the supply of pitchblende in Cornwall, as far as I can judge, is much larger than in Austria. There is no other source of supply of such magnitude known at present. The supply of radium in Great Britain is assured."

Sir William remarked that polonium (one of the discoveries of Mme. Curie) could also be extracted by a simple process from the ore on which they were working. It had not been done at present, because polonium had never been brought into the market, but it was probable that later it would be found useful in medicine.

Beans at $500 a Barrel.

New York.—The highest price on record for beans—$15,000 for thirty barrels—has just been paid by a New York bonding company. They were neither charity beans nor prize beans; just plain, ordinary beans of the favorite Boston variety. The bonding company sent its check for the beans to United States Commissioner Shields of the federal court, who applied it in satisfaction of the forfeited bail of J. F. Ehrhart, formerly a bean dealer. In 1902 Ehrhart was indicted on the charge of having smuggled thirty barrels of beans into the United States from Canada. The duty on the smuggled beans was $92.80.

Ehrhart was held in $15,000 bail for trial. He put up $16,000 in cash with the bonding company and then left the country. He has never come back and his bond is declared forfeited.

Buy Gramme of Radium.

London.—Sir Ernest Cassel has bought a gramme of radium from the Austrian works at Joachimsthal for experiment in the cure of cancer by the British Radium Institute. He paid $72,000 for it.

CATER TO ELITE OF JUNGLE

Carl Woermann of Hamburg-American Lines to Transport Wild Animals in Vessels.

New York.—That Colonel Roosevelt did not bag all the game in Africa is shown by the fact that the new Hamburg-American liner, Carl Woermann, about to establish direct service between the United States and the west coast of Africa, has made special provision for the transportation of wild animals to the animals.

Heretofore all trade between the United States and the west coast of Africa has been carried on by way of Hamburg or Liverpool, necessitating trans-shipment at these ports with additional danger in handling and increased cost of transportation. By the direct route the animals may step from the jungle onto the deck of the steamship, so to speak, and with all the comforts of home set sail for New York, where the ostrich and large cargo of oil, tobacco, flour, canned food products, machinery and cotton goods, to be exchanged for the valuable native products of the tropics.

the cuisine for animal passengers will be conducted on the "Dutch treat" system—each passenger supplying his own food for the voyage and trusting to the discretion of the ship's crew as to the proper time, place and amount to be indulged in. However, should occasion necessitate, the same rule as regards medical attendance which obtains on board all ocean liners will also obtain on the Hamburg-American line's new service and apply to the animals.

Although the deck of the Carl Woermann on its return trips may resemble a zoo, on the out trip its hold will carry enough to stock a modern department store. The ports along the west African coast are the only ones in the world visited by modern liners where primitive methods of barter and trade are still practiced. The Carl Woermann will carry out large cargoes of oil, tobacco, flour, canned food products, machinery and cotton goods, to be exchanged for the valuable native products of the tropics.

POLLUTED DRINKING WATER ENDANGERS FARMERS' HEALTH

Often Results From Neglect or Ignorance of Harmful Effects of Placing Well in Close Proximity to Stables.

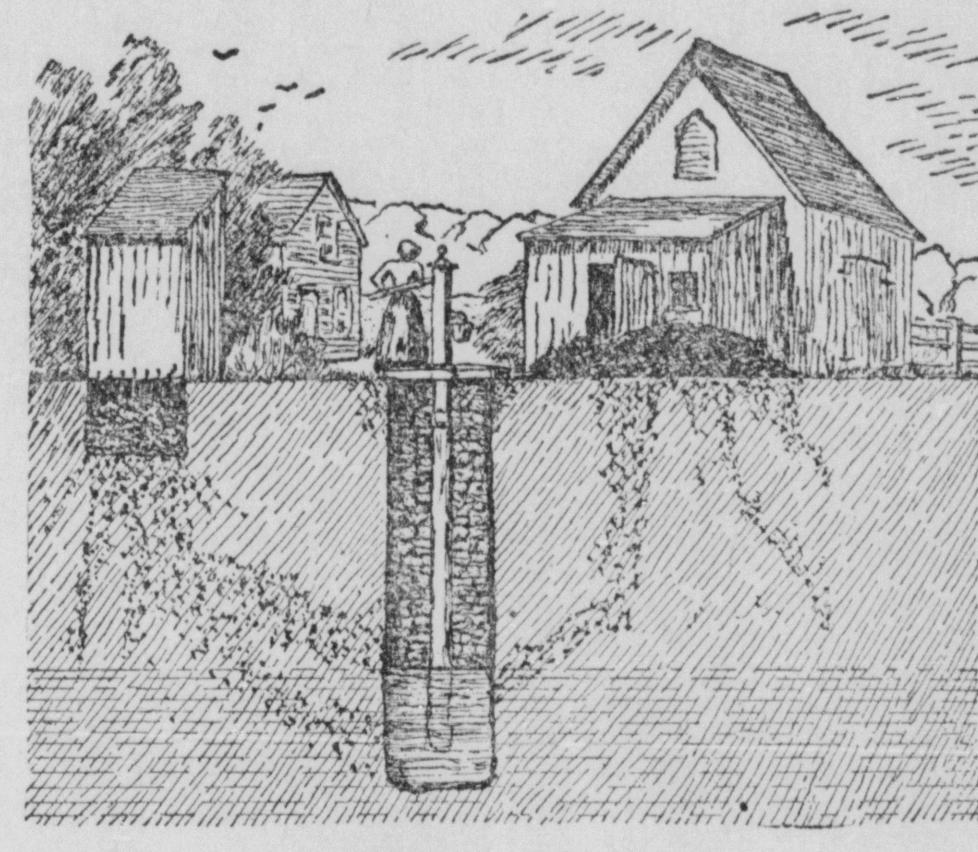

In the city the sanitary condition of homes is maintained chiefly by a system of co-operation and centralization which brings into existence extensive sewerage systems, water supplies, and the collection of house waste by public authority.

In the country—and more particularly in isolated districts—the conditions affecting the health of the household are largely in its own hands, and more individual effort is required to maintain healthful surroundings than in cities. The farmer must supply himself and family with drinking water, and must get rid of the waste of the household as best he can.

The chief dangers which threaten the health of rural inhabitants are those arising from polluted drinking water. This is often the result of neglect or ignorance of the harmful effects of placing a well in close proximity to stables.

Too much care cannot be bestowed upon the household well. It should be guarded jealously, and all means applied to put the water above any suspicion of being impure. This is especially true in dairies where well water is used in cleaning the milk cans, and where steam and boiling water have not yet found their way for this end.

The well itself must be so constructed that impurities cannot get into it from above or from the sides. If water can soak into it after passing through a few feet of soil only, it cannot be regarded as secure from pollution. To prevent this, the well may be provided with a water-tight wall built of hard-burned brick and cement down to the water level. The outside surface of the wall should be covered with a thin layer of cement, and Poorly Placed Well.

Imity to barns and other outbuildings. The water in the well is infected from the household excrement and barnyard drainage, and its use leads to typhoid fever and other diseases. Wells are exposed to contamination by the surface water from rain, house slops and barnyard drainage, which finds its way into the well at or near the surface of the ground.

WOMEN FARM IN SCOTLAND

Their Employment Brought About by Increased Emigration of Farm Help—Give Entire Satisfaction.

(By R. G. WEATHERSTONE.) Owing to the increased emigration from the border and middle lands of Scotland to the United States and Canada, farm holders there appear to be employing more women farm hands than heretofore. There are many fruit and vegetable farms on which women and girls are employed in preparing, tilling and harvesting the crops. In many instances it is claimed that they give better satisfaction than men, their steady and careful truck farming in garden and field showing increased results. These clay pounded and puddled in around it. Or, tile may be used to line the well and the joints made water-tight with cement down to the water level. Driven wells, i. e., wells constructed of iron tubing driven into the ground, are, perhaps, the safest where the quantity of water needed is not large and where other conditions are favorable.

The action of the board of safety last night regarding the police department shows that the members of the board are in favor of law enforcement and are ready to do their part in cleaning up the present deplorable condition of the city. As was well stated at that meeting the enforcement of the law, and the general good order of the city depends almost entirely upon the mayor and the police department. The board went on record as willing to assist in enforcing the law, even if it were necessary to demand the resignation of every one of the policemen appointed by that board, in order to make vacancies for men who would perform their duties in accordance with the oath of office.

The board evidently intends to carry out its order and if that body sees that its appointees make an effort to enforce the law, the matter is then placed up to the mayor in a very decided manner, and the citizens have a right to look to him for his support.
There will be no evading of the question, for he has the power of appointing the chief of police and will have the assistance of the other members of the police force.

The Mayor and chief of police are to be commended for their evident effort yesterday to secure a jury that would render an impartial verdict in the liquor case which was on trial.
Such a course will be commended by every fairminded citizen. It will be necessary not only to continue this course but also to look after law violations more vigorously than has been done, if the administration hopes to regain any part of the people's confidence which has been lost by the very wide open policy which has prevailed during the past months.

"I tried doctors and other medicines and found little relief, until I was induced it and think there is no other as good."

In some instances, Cardui gives instant relief; in others, it may take a little time.
But in all cases of female trouble Cardui can be depended on to be of benefit, as it is a specific remedy for women and acts in a curative way on the womanly

PLACE SEEKERS BEING TESTED

Representative Racey, Who Has Charge of the "Soup Tureen," Told
All Applicants For Jobs to Have Their Pleas in in Their Own Handwriting, as Penmanship Would Be One of the Tests of Fitness.

Indianapolis, Jan. 7.—Many of the legislators left the city yesterday afternoon following a brief session in both houses of the general assembly, expecting to spend today and Sunday at home. An adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, plenty of time was given for all to get back in their seats on that day.

The chief work in the house yesterday was the passage under suspension of rules, of an act appropriating $120,000 for the expenses of the assembly. The measure was introduced by Representative Cravens, chairman of the legislative visiting committee and said to be slated for the position of chairman of the ways and means committee and the floor leadership of the majority. A chorus of "We're for it," and "We all need the money," greeted the introduction of this first supply measure, and the bill was pushed through in short order. The Senate did not wait for the bill, which will reach it Monday afternoon. The bill, since it was for an appropriation, had to originate in the house.

Job Hunters Disappointed.

Hungry job hunters saw the session open and close in the house without the covers being moved from the soup tureen. They were told that the stuff would be ready by Monday afternoon, when spoons would be handed out to the selected ones.

Representative W. S. Racey of Knox county is in charge of the plunder kitchen, and spent much time in preparing the mess and listening to the favored ones. All the places were filled during the session yesterday by persons who have been anxiously awaiting appointment and who were willing to work their best during the day and take their chances. An army of would-be clerks was ready to "take their pens in hand," but Racey told them there was nothing doing until Monday. Nothing will be given out concerning appointments until that time.

The penmanship test will be used by Racey and his committee in assisting them to separate the wheat from the chaff in the list of applicants. All members were told by Racey to have the names of their candidates for places in the handwriting of the appointees, in the hands of the committee by 11 o'clock Monday, and the penmanship will be used to an extent in determining the qualifications of the applicants.

"We have plenty of people who want to work," announced Racey, "but we don't know very much about their abilities."

In the Senate.

Action was taken by the senate for the preparation of bills covering all suggestions for legislation contained in Governor Marshall's message.
Senator Harlan offered a resolution that the president of the senate appoint a committee of five, consisting of three majority members and two minority members, which shall consider subjects mentioned in the governor's message assign them to the various committees for action. This committee may act either with a similar committee which may be appointed by the house, or independently. Several of the governor's suggestions are not known as party platform measures, and the idea is to carry out the governor's recommendations completely.

Lieutenant Governor Hall appointed to this special committee Senators Harlan, Stotsenberg and Fleming. Democrats, and Wood and Higgins, Republicans.

A motion for the appointment of a committee to prepare proper resolutions in memory of Carroll K. McCullough, a former senator from Madison county, who died since the last session, was introduced by Senator Stot-senberg. The motion was unanimously approved by a rising vote, and Lieutenant Governor Hall appointed the following as members of the committee: Senators Netterville, Shively and Kane. The committee was instructed to report Monday.

A resolution offered by Senator Proctor that all bills be presented to the clerk in duplicate copies was approved unanimously. No attempt was made to introduce bills.

PE-RU-NA USED FOR KIDNEY CATARRH.

Kidney Trouble for Nearly Thirty Years.

William Bailey, Past Col. Enc. No. 69, Union Veteran Legion, and prominently identified with many of the great labor protective associations in Chicago and New York, and secretary of one of the largest associations in the former city, had for nearly thirty years been afflicted with kidney troubles.

Within a short period he has been persuaded to try Peruna, and his present healthy condition is attributed to his judicious use of that great remedy. Washington climate is notoriously bad for kidney and liver troubles, yet by a judicious use of the remedy he is now quite cured and in excellent physical condition.

This brief statement of facts, without exaggeration or hyperbole, appears to tell the whole story, which the Peruna Company is authorized to use, if it so chooses, believing, as I do, that by so doing it will be for the general good.

Chronic Kidney Trouble.

Judge C. J. Park, R. F. D. 1, Buckhead, Ga., writes:

"For a long time I was troubled with catarrh of the kidneys, and after taking Peruna I feel like a new man. I think it the greatest catarrh medicine of the age, and believe it will cure any case of catarrh on record."

The Hermit of Rocky Hole

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Mrs. Stevens panted into the sitting room where her boarder was sewing in the sunny bay window. It was Saturday and the school-teacher's holliday.

Grace Winton looked up from her mending and smiled at Mrs. Stevens' eager countenance. "You look as if you had news to tell," she suggested, threading her needle.

The other woman tossed aside her knitted shawl and warmed her hands at the drum stove where the apple-wood smoke curled fragrantly from the cracks. "There's more news than common," she wheezed asthmatically. "You've heard tell about the hermit of Rocky Hole?" she asked.

"I've heard the children tell tales about such a person," admitted Grace, with interest. "I thought he was a mythical personage—is there really an hermit in Pendleton?"

Mrs. Stevens nodded her head emphatically. "I should say there was! Rich, too, and lives in that cave high up on the west mountain. Rocky Hole, they call it, because you can't get anywhere near it without being heard; there are so many rocks around they go tumbling down the hillsides at every footstep you take. He's mighty unsociable, too, they say."

"Hermits have that reputation, I believe," said Grace demurely. "Do tell me, is your news about this hermit?"

"Yes. You see, he's been coming here for years. Every spring when the first robin comes that hermit makes his appearance; nobody ever gets very close to see him for he has a big dog to keep folks off. And I don't know how he gets his foodstuff because he don't trade in the village—maybe lives on roots and berries and such truck. He's an old man with a long white beard and he walks with a stick as if he were lame."

"What becomes of him in the winter?" asked Grace curiously.

"Some say he goes to the city and plays an organ on the street corner. I've heard those folks make lots of money. He owns half the mountain, they say. Well, what was I going to tell you about is this: Mr. Lane, the storekeeper, says he believes the old man is sick or dying or something."

"Do You Want to Go on a Picnic With Me, Lon?"

"Why?"

"Somebody heard him calling for help yesterday morning, some hunter who was passing along the upper road that's seldom used—it leads almost underneath where the Rocky Hole is. So the man hollered up and asks if anything is the matter. Just then the hermit began to throw stones down on him, round stones, big enough to knock a man senseless. So the hunter says, says he, 'Go to the Dickens—I guess there ain't much the matter with you.' Mr. Lane says there wasn't any smoke coming from the mountain this morning and he reckons something's the matter."

"What is going to be done about it? Surely, somebody will go up and see the old man," said Grace pityingly.

"I don't know who wants to get stoned. Maybe he's crazy—like as not he is. Anybody who'd want to live where there wasn't nobody to talk to must be crazy! There I've got a cake to make now to take to the meeting—we're going to pack a barrel for some of them savages; you want to come, Miss Winton?"

The school-teacher was looking off toward the west mountain slopes with misty eyes. She turned her head to Mrs. Stevens. "Not today, thank you," she said gently. "I'm going on a little picnic this afternoon—with one of my scholars."

"It's a nice day for a picnic if you're well wrapped up. There's plenty in the pantry to put in your basket and you can help yourself, you know," said the other hospitably.

An hour after dinner, Grace Winton set forth with a covered basket on her arm. She stopped once or twice and made additions to the generous lunch Mrs. Stevens had provided, a can of soup and a glass of jelly from the grocery and a bottle of blackberry wine from the little drug store. Then she walked briskly over the bridge, turned into the road that led past the mill and bailed the miller's little lad who was fishing in the tumbling stream.

"Do you want to go on a picnic with me, Lon?" she called.

"Yes, ma'am," he called delightedly and after obtaining permission from his mother he joined his teacher and together they walked through the woods where the fallen leaves crissed under foot and where the odor of birch and sassafras smelled strong and sweet.

"Lon, do you know the way to the hermit's cave?" she asked quietly.

Lon stared at her with paling cheeks. "You're not going there, Miss Grace?" he faltered.

"Yes, I am, my dear. If you don't go with me and show the way I must go alone, for an old man is hurt there and perhaps dying. Before we enjoy our own picnic we must see him. You can turn back now if you want to." She looked at him, confident of his answer.

"You can't go alone, Miss Grace; he might hurt you. I'll go with you; if he throws stones I'll—I'll lam him one!" Lon frowned fiercely at his imaginary foe and thoughtfully cut himself a stout stick with a knobby handle.

"Thank you, dear," said Grace. "I was sure you'd go along to take care of me."

Lon straightened his shoulders and his ears reddened with pride and embarrassment as he led the way through a tangled thicket and by devious other ways until they stood in a narrow path, well defined and covered with clear white sand.

"That leads to the cave," whispered Lon cautiously. "Me and some fellows found it one day—it comes from over the mountain—I guess that's the way he goes to and fro. We was after bird's eggs last summer—there's millions of birds around here—and the old man came and chased us off."

Grace reserved her reprimands for some future date and told Lon to go ahead and she would follow. At last, they stood before the mouth of the cave which opened onto a plateau covered with small loose stones of various sizes. Their carefully guarded footsteps sent several stones rattling down the hillside with a surprising noise. A dog barked hoarsely.

"Who is there?" called a feeble voice from within the cave.

"Friends!" replied Grace cheerily. "Are you in trouble?"

"Yes—and sprained my ankle yesterday and I've been suffering tortures since then. I've tried to get help from outside but everyone acts so confoundedly idiotic every time a stone rattles down the hillside that I'd about given it up. Wait a moment please and I'll come out."

"He's got a nice voice," whispered Lon to his teacher as they waited for the hermit's appearance.

"Very likely he's the nicest old gentleman you ever met," she smiled back at him. "Here he comes now."

With that expression of tenderest pity lighting her face Grace Winton saw a man drag himself painfully from the opening of the cave. Her eyes widened as she realized that this was no old man—young, handsome and athletic looking, the picture of health, save for a certain drawn look in his face that intense suffering might have placed there, he half crept, half hobbled to a sitting position in the mouth of the cave and then he fainted dead away.

When Grace and Lon had recovered from their astonishment and bent themselves to resuscitate the stranger, the boy spoke:

"This isn't the hermit, Miss Grace."

"Never mind," she said absently, as she propped his head against her shoulder and forced some of the blackberry wine between his lips. "He's in need of help anyway. Undabandage his ankle, Lon—carefully my dear—there, it is black and blue and dreadfully swelled. Can you fetch water from the stream? Doesn't it run above here?"

Lon dashed away with a pail and when he returned with the icy water he found the young man recovered and rather ashamed of his momentary weakness. Sitting with his injured foot in the cold water he told the two that his uncle, the hermit, was none other than Waynewood Stone, well-known ornithologist who had used the cave as a summer point of observation to study his beloved birds. Now that the old man was crippled with rheumatism and confined to his beautiful city home, this nephew, Frank Stone, had come to take his uncle's place and gather the necessary data for the old man's forthcoming book of bird-lore.

"Now we must get a doctor up to us at once," said Grace, preparing to leave after Mr. Stone had wrung the story of their coming from her unwilling lips. "And you will want a man to keep house for you if you insist on remaining up here—Mrs. Stevens' son might come and take care of you."

"I believe I'll get the doctor to take me down to the hotel in Pendleton," said Stone thoughtfully.

"There ain't no birds down there," ventured Lon diffidently. "Leastways not new ones."

"There is one new to me—a winter red bird," returned Stone without looking at Grace, as she hastened away, her heart fluttering with his warm thoughts of appreciation.

"I'm glad I'm not an old hermit," he added to himself as he waited patiently for the coming of the doctor.

Months afterward, Mrs. Stevens held up her hands in astonishment. "Land alive, Miss Winton, now that you're going to marry Mr. Stone, there won't be no hermit that can live safely on the mountain—all the girls will be going up there to see if he ain't as rich and good looking as your husband!"

WHAT YOU RECKON A DAY

Depends on Whether You Are an Astronomer or Something Else.

What is a day? In the sense in which the word is commonly used "day" includes the period of light as distinguished from that of darkness. The period of light to people in the middle states means merely a certain number of hours out of the 24, but it may mean any length of time under six months, according to the latitude of the observer and the season of the year.

Another popular meaning is the space of 24 hours, including a period of light and a period of darkness. This, again, is not the same all the world over, as the time of the commencement and termination vary in different countries. Some reckon from sunset to sunset, some from dawn to dawn, while modern civilized nations count from midnight to midnight.

Astronomers also have their various days; the absolute solar day, ranging from about half a minute under to the same amount over 24 hours at different times of the year; the mean solar day being our common day of 24 hours; the lunar day of nearly 25 hours, and the sidereal day of about four seconds short of 24 hours.

The succession of day and night depends on the rotation of the earth on its axis, and since the earth is of a globular shape, it is evident that the whole of its surface can not be turned toward the sun at one and the same moment. In other words, it can not be noon all over the earth at precisely the same time. A little thought will show that whenever it is noon at any one place it is midnight on the opposite side of the earth, and at the different points between all the times of day are at one and the same moment to be found.

The True Equality.

"The late Senator Doliver," said a Washington editor, "owed a great part of his success to his thorough understanding of the American character.

"He understood the American people and he admired and sympathized with them. I'll never forget an after-dinner speech of his on equality.

"He said that in America we understand by equality not that we were all equals in learning, in intellect and so forth, but that we were all equals in the power to be good and honorable and generous.

"And he told, by way of illustration, how a Fort Dodge church once gave a charity concert where the best talent volunteered—the city's leading singers, elocutionists and actors."

"At the end of the concert the chairman went up to the organ loft and said to the little boy in patched clothes who had blown the organ:

"Well, Freddie, what do we owe you for your work this evening?"

"The little boy looked at the chairman in genuine astonishment.

"Why, sir," he said, "didn't the rest of the talent give their services?"

How Women Buy Cigars.

"When women buy cigars they often show more common sense and a finer discrimination than the average man," writes Carl Werner in Harper's Weekly.

"Woman is, by nature, a better shopper than man. In buying neckties or shirts or slippers or suits of clothes for her boys, for instance, she has a man beaten forty ways. And those articles are not in women's sphere by any means. It all comes down to the fact that woman, first by instinct, and second by constant practice and experience, is a better all-round shopper than her mate. She has learned how to ask intelligent questions of the salespeople—has learned, in short, all the little tricks and turns that enable one to get the best value for the least money with the least possible waste of time or words."

When Grace and Lon had recovered from their astonishment and bent themselves to resuscitate the stranger, the boy spoke:

"This isn't the hermit, Miss Grace."

"Never mind," she said absently, as she propped his head against her shoulder and forced some of the blackberry wine between his lips.

"He's in need of help anyway. Undabandage his ankle, Lon—carefully my dear—there, it is black and blue and dreadfully swelled. Can you fetch water from the stream? Doesn't it run above here?"

ODDS AND ENDS.

The man in the honeymoon isn't a myth.

Talk may be cheap, but gossip soon gains currency.

But few people are able to recognize bear meat after it has been dressed.

Some men make more money by failing than others by being successful.

You can't scare children into being good by telling them that the good die young.

Seeing isn't always believing. It often depends upon what newspaper you see it in.

Don't you feel sorry for a man who hasn't sense enough to make a fool of himself occasionally?

The boy who is born with a silver spoon in his mouth may live to patronize the free lunch counter.

Patrons bleed for the benefit of their country, but politicians occasionally bleed the country for their own benefit.

DYSPEPTIC PHILOSOPHY.

It doesn't augur well for a man to be a bore.

All things come to those who go after them.

An ideal lover often makes a mighty poor husband.

When in doubt it's a good plan to tell the truth.

Graft is often successful, but you can't bribe destiny.

When a woman expresses a wish the charges are seldom prepaid.

Some people are anxious to give the devil his due even before he claims it.

The man who would win success hasn't much time to stop and pick flowers by the way.

The theory that faint heart ne'er won fair lady doesn't interest the fellow who prefers brunettes.

A critic is a man who isn't satisfied to hit the nail on the head. He wants to hit the fellow who is driving the nail.

WAYSID WISDOM.

The hardest job in the world is the hypocrite's.

No girl could be so unsophisticated as a widow seems.

Some men's idea of being independent is to be impolite.

Flattery is the one counterfeit which all of us prefer to the genuine article.

The average man is always willing to trade today's silver for tomorrow's rainbow gold.

The fire of love—ah, that's the kind a married man expects to see burning under the kitchen stove!

A girl will believe anything that a fortune teller tells her, except that she is going to die an old maid.

Most men go through life as they went through Sunday school—waiting to be good until the Christmas tree is in prospect.

Osteopathy

IS NATURE'S AID TO HEALTH AND APPEALS TO REASON.

It is not a cureall, but it adds years to the life and life to the years of chronic sufferers, who have tried other methods without success. If you are rheumatic, neuralgic, dyspeptic, paralytic, asthmatic, can't eat, can't sleep, all fagged out without exertion, fractions and fly to pieces, fear a nervous collapse, something is seriously clogging the wheels of life. The longer you try to work while the body machinery is out of gear, the greater will be the damage it suffers.

The Human Body a Working Machine.

No defective machine can turn out good work. Every day that an "unclean" watch, auto, or any other machine is compelled to run, wears seriously its vital parts and saps its vitality.

Man of today is as near a machine as he probably ever can become, and still exist. To keep him in perfect "running order" he has to be treated as such. Now, if your watch or auto had slipped a cog, or was "clogged up" with foreign matter threatening its very existence unless removed, would you apply acid or dope to rid it of foreign matter or to adjust its parts?

As With Auto and Watch

so with the human body; it gets out of running order through the process of life and needs repairing. It has been abundantly demonstrated in this community that health depends upon the human machine being kept in good mechanical order. Adjustment of the human body is the particular and special work of the SPAUNHURST OSTEOPATHIC PHYSICIANS.

That they are expert body machinists, know what to do and how to correctly fix what is mechanically wrong with the body structure is evidenced by kindly expressions of those who have given their treatment a fair trial. Ask them about it.

A cinder gets in your eye, you poultice it and quell the inflammation, but the cinder will bring it back. Lift up the lid and remove the cause—the cinder—and the trouble will remedy itself. Just so it is when you are sick, before you can be well the cause must be found and removed. Which will you choose, or drugs to palliate the symptoms? Palliation can never cure. All that is needed to demonstrate this is unprejudiced inquiry. What they have done for others they can do for you. They have earned and are entitled to the liberal patronage accorded them during their two years' practice. First National Bank Building, Seymour every Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Such are their credentials. They give a little more satisfaction than is expected and make good every promise. They do not claim to perform miracles. Aid nature to health—that's all. Go and see.

OSTEOPATHY TO REMOVE THE CAUSE,

TWO EXCELLENT ADDRESSES GIVEN

was linked together and that the one depended upon the other. He emphasized several factors which influence the community for the better. His address is always heard with much interest and this one was no exception.

The meeting this morning was a success and was largely attended. Holmes Robertson was the presiding officer. Rev. H. Knauff pronounced the invocation. Arthur Fox delighted the audience with a musical selection after which J. A. Driscoll discussed the "Soil." His address was highly instructive and the attention was very close. Following the address W. A. Lucas conducted the discussion.

M. L. Matthews, of Cambridge City, gave an excellent address upon "Furnishing the Home." Her address was especially appropriate and was enjoyed.

The closing session will be held this afternoon.

The premium list will be announced this afternoon.

John G. Offut, of Vernon township, was in the city Friday attending the institute.

NO RESPITE FOR RICH OFFENDERS

President Taft Hands Down a Notable Decision.

HARLAN MUST STAY IN PRISON

Big Southern Lumber Man Convicted on Peonage Charge Got Cold Comfort When HeAppealed to President Taft For Pardon, the Executive Holding That a Deterrent Example Is Necessary.

Washington, Jan. 7.—President Taft expressed his belief that fines are not sufficient punishment for wealthy men and that imprisonment is necessary where violation of a criminal statute is proved, in refusing the application for the pardon of W. S. Harlan, convicted of violation of the peonage law and sentenced to pay a fine of $5,000 and be imprisoned for eighteen months. Harlan is manager of a great lumber and turpentine company doing business in Florida and Alabama.

"The government of the United States has been at great pains and cost to suppress peonage," says the president's decision. "It is much more likely to be maintained successfully where, as in these cases, the laborers are foreigners and do not speak English and hardly know their rights. It is a kind of offense that is regarded lightly in some communities. If permitted to live at all it will spread rapidly its demoralizing influence."

"When therefore a man of high business standing and large enterprises is convicted of the offense, the punishment should be such as to deter others from the practice. Fines are not effective against men of wealth. Imprisonment is necessary. I am well aware of the grievous character of confinement in jail to a man of Mr. Harlan's standing, and I should be glad to yield to the urgent appeals of his many friends, but I cannot do so. I believe him to be guilty of the charge of which he was convicted. To retain and enforce the imprisonment part of the sentence will operate powerfully to prevent a recurrence of such offenses by men of large affairs and business standing. To relieve such an one of penalty of imprisonment and when properly convicted and sentenced would be to break the authority of the law with those of power and influence and would tempt on their part further breaches. What is worse, it would give real ground for the contention so often heard that it is only the poor criminals who are really punished."

DEFALCATION GROWS

Investigation of Robin Case Has Just Touched the High Spots.

New York, Jan. 7.—Seven additional indictments have been returned by the grand jury against Joseph G. Robin, the banker, charging him with stealing $207,000 from the Washington Savings bank, of which he was president. These, added to the indictment found last week charging Robin with the theft of $80,000 from the same institution, bring the amount he is accused of taking from the Washington bank up to $287,000.

This in all probability does not represent the entire amount of Robin's thefts from the savings bank, for the grand jury has not finished its examination of Robin's dealings with the Washington. The operations which led to the closing of the Northern bank have yet to be gone into.

Returning Soldier Killed.

Bloomfield, Ind., Jan. 7.—While returning home from the Philippine islands, where he had been serving his time in the United States army, and had received his discharge, Jerry Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, living a short distance west of here, near Switz City, met with a violent death at San Francisco. He was killed there by a fall.

Illinois Wastes Half Its Coal.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 7.—In his message to the Forty-seventh Illinois assembly, Governor Deeney declared that Illinois was wasting approximately 50 per cent of its coal by present mining methods and was killing three of every thousand men employed. He recommended that the geological survey of the state be amply financed to correct this.

CIRCULATING PETITION

Among Farmers Near Crothersville For a Five Mile Ditch.

A movement has been started looking to the digging of a ditch which it is figured would drain about 14000 acres of land around Crothersville.

W. P. Rider of that place is circulating a petition for the ditch among the interested farmers. When the necessary signatures are secured it will be presented to the commissioners. The ditch would extend from Wascom bridge to a place near Langdon and would be five miles in length. Another big ditch which is to be constructed has its outlet near the outlet of the proposed ditch.

Foley Kidney Pills

Are tonic in action, quick in results. A special medicine for all kidney and bladder disorders. Oscar Bell, Bloomington, Ind., says: "I have been bothered greatly with my kidneys and I would have suffered a complete breakdown had it not been for Foley Kidney Pills. My back pained me terribly with sharp shooting thrusts, my kidneys acted much too freely and I had headaches with dizziness and tired feelings in the morning. Foley Kidney Pills were brought to my notice and I started right in with them. I was gratified with the quick results. They eased my backache and before many weeks I felt like a different man. Foley Kidney Pills have cured me and I gladly recommend their use." A. J. Pells.

The firm of Swope & Schuler at Columbus has been succeeded by Swope & Co., the interests of the late F. J. Schuler having been purchased. Allen Swope is president of the new company. George Schuler, secretary and H. E. Murphy, treasurer. Mr. Murphy will manage the business and has been succeeded as manager for the Canning Company by Logan Hooker, formerly of Jeffersonville.

Fever Sores.

Fever sores and old chronic sores should not be healed entirely, but should be kept in healthy condition. This can be done by applying Chamberlain's Salve. This salve has no superior for this purpose. It is also most excellent for chapped hands, sore nipples, burns and diseases of the skin. For sale by Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

A condensed milk factory may be established in Crothersville. The farmers of that section are to be canvassed to determine if they will furnish the necessary milk.

A Reliable Cough Medicine.

Is a valuable family friend. Foley's Honey and Tar fulfills this condition exactly. Mrs. Charles Kline, N. 8th St., Easton, Pa., states: "Several members of my family have been cured of bad coughs and colds by the use of Foley's Honey and Tar and I am never without a bottle in the house." Refuse substitutes. A. J. Pells.

J. B. Shepard has installed a new cash register in his restaurant. The register is one of the newest types made and is a splendid addition to his business.

Foley's Kidney Remedy-An Appreciation.

L. McConnell, Catherine St., St. Elmira, N. Y., writes: "I wish to express my appreciation of the great good I derived from Foley's Kidney Remedy, which I used for a bad case of kidney trouble. Five bottles did the work most effectively and proved to me beyond doubt it is the most reliable kidney medicine I have ever taken." A. J. Pells.

The B. & O. has employed the following firemen: Oscar Smith, Mitchell; C. H. Stafford and Leonard Lanning, Aurora; Carl Bridges, Paris Crossing; Frank Durlin, Taylorsville, Ky.

Stomach Trouble Cured.

If you have any trouble with your stomach you should take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. P. Klotz of Edina, Mo., says: "I have used a great many different medicines for stomach trouble, but find Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets more beneficial than any other remedy I ever used." For sale by Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

UNION SERVICES

Will Be Continued by The Churches All Next Week.

Union Evangelistic meetings will be continued by the Seymour churches throughout next week.

The spirit of Christian fellowship was never better among the churches of our city and the longing for a true revival is general. And why should it not be. The fact is apparent that the destructive operations of spiritual foes have caused great need of this revival.

Worldliness and skepticism have done a vast amount of mischief and these agencies have brought about in Christendom that condition of things that is largely the cause of the slow progress of Christ's cause among the nations. A genuine revival is the result of the cooperation of man with God. Now, dear children of God, let us do our part and God will certainly crown our efforts with victory.

THE PROGRAM

MONDAY at 7:30 p.m. at the First Baptist church. Speaker Rev. Chas. Treuchel.
